I had the pleasure of meeting Sharon only a handful of times but have had more interactions with her children over a span of over 20 years. From their stories, you got this idea that she was this larger than life personality even in the face of adversity and she never disappointed in living up to that reputation. Something I understand she inherited from her mother another larger than life personality. I know that she'll be sorely missed but will never be forgotten. God has her now. In what better hands to spend the rest of eternity.
