One of the best and funniest memories I have of my dad was when we would go fishing at mission bay. On this day we went with a couple of his work buddies AL & Tom and their kids, we rented 2 small boats and tom and al and his kids were in one boat and me my brother and dad in the other. The day was going great until Al wanted to come to our boat and decided that we can do it on the water instead of going to the shore. So we brought the boats together and Al placed one foot into our boat and the boats started to drift apart, next thing you hear is a huge splash, that's right AL took a dip into the water, but he could not swim and panicked and almost tipped our boat over. After getting him on the boat we continued to fish and next thing you know AL was yelling I got a fish, his pole was bending like crazy and we watched as he fought what was at the end of his line and when he got it up to the surface all you could hear was laughing because he had a boot at the end of his line. What luck.. great times..
