Brenda and I went to Jr High and High School together. I remember Brenda's sisters, Connie and Marga and her parents. Sometimes I would spend the night at their house. I remember the foster babies they took care of, their little beds lined up in the dining room. We had a lot of laughs together. She had a great sense of humor. We had Study Hall together and sometimes we would make up funny stories on tiny pieces of paper and pass them to each other in class. Did not want to get caught so could not laugh. Thought we would explode. I am not surprised that she had a successful career and had many friends. My sincere condolences to her family.

One of the smartest women I've known. I had some very deep hearted conversations with her and she always came from a place of non judgement and good incite. I see so much of her in my daughter. I'm so happy to have had her as my mother in law for many years. She's also the only person that I ever dined and ditched with (it's a long story)! We will all miss her but will carry some great memories forever. Kristen Harris

Thank you Brad. She trusted your judgement entirely.

I adored Brenda on a personal and professional level. We talk about everything from politics to the stock market to the top wine finds. I used to joke with her and say, "We're going 100% pork bellies. Sell everything and buy pork bellies now!" Brenda would say, "Brad, if you told me to sell everything and buy pork bellies, I would absolutely do it." Such a sweet and special lady. I'll really miss her. Brad Willis
