Recalling Chuck "chuckie" from the days of our childhood when we heard my first Beatles 45 RPM record that he shared with us on his record player. We were the kids from Berrydale Street. My condolences go out to the family.

Oh Chuck, I just can not seem to be able to believe that you are gone. I always thought of you as invincible; that you would just always be there; that safe place in a storm; that one thing in life that was a given. You always had the most incredible heart I have ever seen, and your heart was always there to be seen; you wore it on your sleeve like a badge of honor; nothing hidden; what you see is what you get. And, with you it was just the best. Loving, caring truthfulness that never went away. It has been 37 years Chuck, can you believe it. We did so much together. As I look back, the only person in my life that I have spent more hours with than you, old friend, is Virgie. During all the time I have known you, I always admired you. I was always so proud of you. I liked to brag about you, and things you did. You were a person that just left a good impression on people, and with my bragging, on many people you never met. You only met my mother once; but for more than 25 years after meeting you, she would ask about you every time I talked to her. Chuck, you were beautiful and I will miss you dearly.

Uncle Chuck...As a child, everytime when you came over to see us, it always felt like I am going to see Santa Claus. I couldn't wait to see you. I was always excited. I could not wait for all the the stories and silly jokes you had to tell me. You lighten up the room. All I can remember are the laughs, the jokes, and how my mother always smiled when she saw u. You were the best friend to our entire family. My family loved u so much. I loved you so much. U are going to be missed so much. Thank you for being there for my family, thank you for being there to see me grow up, thank you for coming to my HS graduating. Thank you for always being you. You've touched so many people in my family. I am glad my mother and I got to see u earlier this year. U will always be in my heart. I love u uncle Chuck.
