Susan Almeleh posted:

I remember when I first met Bibi. I was visiting my Aunt Jennie at the Sun N Dale apartments. She was so excited to introduce me to her new friend and neighbor Bibi. We all sat down in her apartment together and shared tea and snacks and got to know each other. It was such a pleasure to see the two ladies together visiting and sharing their own life's experiences with each other. Bibi and her beloved family eventually became very close friends with Aunt Jennie. She regarded them all as more than friends, they were extended family. So it was through my conversations with Aunt Jennie that I got to know how special Bibi was. What a sweet caring lady. When Aunt Jennie became debilitated near the end of her life, Bibi was continually checking in on her, making sure she wasn't in distress. It always warmed my heart to see that heart connection that they both shared. Because of that, my heart became connected too. May Bibi's loving kindness and generosity of spirit always be remembered and carried on by all who were fortunate enough to know her. Love, Susan
