A Living Remembrance
Lorenzo Roberto Lunceford

Just One More Set...

August 27, 2022

Lorenzo Roberto lived a good life in his short 25 years. He was a good young man who learned to always give his best and no one could ask for more. He was a person of solid character and that developed from a strong familial foundation. Because of his strong upbringing filled with love and faith, Lorenzo became the man he was, strong in character and generous in spirit.

Lorenzo has had an incredible relationship with his family. He's always known to be sweet, kind and genuinely interested in what his cousins were up to and their wellbeing. Lorenzo for the most part was raised and nurtured by the women of the family and for this reason, he really has known how to be loving, nurturing and patient with others and has had a beautiful sense of how to be gentle and kind with others-especially women. Family meant everything to Lorenzo. Our big, Mexican parties were his favorite events. Mariachi, tequila, homemade tamales and desserts. He just beamed with joy when we were all together celebrating.

One of Lorenzo's best friends, Jermaine Casteneda, referred to Lorenzo as his "big, little brother". If you have ever seen the two of them side by side, you'll know why he called him that. Jermaine had this to say about Lorenzo:

A beautiful soul. A rarity in this world of smoke and mirrors. He was there for you no matter what, displaying true strength of vulnerability and humility as a friend. As a brother.

Lorenzo showed his love for his family and friends by showing up and being present in our day to day lives. Lorenzo always took the time to ask us how we were doing or what we had planned for the day or ask us if we wanted some of his food (except for his In-and Out-he didn't really offer that). He was genuine with his love and concern. He took the time to look in your eyes, give a hug and a kiss and be in your space. Saying, “I feel you”, was a very authentic phrase of Lorenzo’s. On top of all that, he gave us great training and nutritional advice for free!

As a son, Lorenzo respected me and our relationship. I never had to yell or punish him really because we communicated so well. If he had consequences for some reason, he accepted them and learned from the experience. I’m not saying he was perfect. What I am saying is that he respected and honored the work that my parents, his parents and his tia had to do every day to “make things happen”. For that reason, he thought twice before he made decisions. Lorenzo has always been a good thinker using both his brain and his heart. No one could ask for a better son.

Lorenzo’s aunt Gigi had this to say about her godson:

I was blessed to have you as a nephew in my life for 25 years. You and I had such a special bond. After uncle Matt died, you and Ari filled a void in my heart. I am so fortunate to have helped you get through your illness; I saw such fight and determination in you to get back to the Lorenzo you remembered. God knows you were making it back-you fought until the very end. But I know that God had better plans for you! I find comfort Lorenzo knowing that you are with nana, grandpa and uncle Matt-pain free in Heaven! “You are a legend and a nephew that will never be forgotten!” See you on the other side. Love aunt Gigi

As a brother, Lorenzo has been fiercely loyal to his sister Arianna not to mention very protective of her. Those two were tight as young kids; Arianna always included him in the play dates she was invited to. He was usually the only boy in the group, but he didn’t seem to mind because she wanted him there and he loved being with his big sister. He was very considerate of Arianna’s feelings and especially when she had a difficult time in her middle school years. They were always cool to go to the mall together and to a movie downtown followed by ice cream at Ghirardelli on 5th Ave. And no matter what, there were three times of the year they would plan for with excitement; the first was planning and preparing an incredible meal for mom on Mother’s Day. The second, the Saturday before Christmas- they were at the table for the tamalada-wrapping tamales with all the mujeres. And then again, Christmas morning-early. Opening gifts with the fam and the dogs. Of course, there were times when Lorenzo would be annoyed with Arianna and call her out if she wasn’t present to do a family outing/task like clean the garage or go to early mass; “Well, why doesn’t Arianna have to help”? Or, “Why doesn’t Arianna have to come with us”? Ah, brotherly love!

Obituary

Lorenzo Roberto Lunceford

JUL 22, 1997 - JUL 26, 2022

It has been a joy watching Lorenzo navigate through life-making his way in this world. A solid foundation made him who is today leaving us with such an impressionable memory. He was serious with his goals, but was very happy with the simple pleasures of being a young boy and eventually a young man.

Spending time with his boys- hanging out for sleepovers and playing video games with Caine, Luis and Ricky made him happy. He cruised around in the mini-van with Edmund and Mrs. Rull during the summers and he enjoyed hanging out at the Rull's. Lorenzo loved going to Mr. Paintball and shooting airsoft guns with Tyler; when they weren't shooting guns, they were at the house tricking them out or buying ammo and gear. He loved playing his guitars and his weekly lessons with Mr. Fleming and Kev meant a lot to him. Of course, team sports like soccer, flag football and rugby with his crew filled his school years with laughter and bonding time with his teammates. It should be known to all that Lorenzo and Luis met in second grade and were inseparable after that first meeting; true bff-his ride or die. No doubt Lorenzo is keeping Luis in check from heaven.

Without a doubt, Lorenzo loved his home life. His days were filled with the richness of family dinners, road trips, carne asada at nana's and grandpa's, family projects, baking bread, birthday parties, and just chilling at home with his dogs-Samson and Dulce. He and Arianna celebrated their birthday parties together for many years up until middle school and then again as young adults.

As Lorenzo became older (13 years of age), he was introduced to body building and Stern's Gym became his "happy place". Pumping iron got into his blood and he never looked back. He lifted weights until his last day here. Lorenzo's other love was nature. He loved to hike, body surf, snorkel and experience any type of nature he could. He loved camping at Big Sur and exploring nature in the Philippines with his dad. One of his highlights of 2019 was a trip to the island of Bohol to hang with his dad. He came back so happy with the experiences he'd had there and left behind many friends who he kept in touch with after returning and throughout his illness and recovery.

He took body building seriously at a young age. Lorenzo was part of two professional body building organizations: INBF and WNBF-World Natural Bodybuilding Federation. He was very proud to be "steroid free" when he competed.

Lorenzo was super proud to be a certificated personal trainer. He worked his way from teaching groups at a private gym to building a small personal training business here in San Diego. He was always working toward improving his business, skill set and technique as a personal trainer.

As a young adult, Lorenzo still loved to have fun and enjoyed many of the same activities he did as a kid, but with an adult twist. He loved chilling with friends, going to a good party, shopping at Las Americas, cooking, baking, going out to lunch or dinner with family and friends. And of course, going to the gym. He earned a living training people and he loved to train himself in his spare time. He started competing in his first physique show at the age of 17. This was so enjoyable for him. He competed in the men's physique for a total of five competitions in his young life and he dreamed to get up on stage again.

We are all better people for having known this young man-Lorenzo. He has left us with so much joy, laughter and knowledge of weight training. Not to mention, just impacting us with an example of how we treat others. The Lord was so generous with Lorenzo and he shared all of his gifts with us.

This young man was as kind as they come. He had such a generous heart and was so, so sensitive to others who were hurting or being treated unfairly. Lorenzo participated in the local marches for Black Lives Matter and advocated for LGBTQ rights-equality for his friends meant everything to him and he was willing to march for these causes.

Lorenzo's perseverance for his life's passions is what should be remembered; he wasn't a complacent person. Once he figured out what he wanted to do in life... he wanted to be an investor, he wanted to be a professional body builder, he wanted to have a thriving personal training business- he went for it! He persevered throughout his entire illness and rehabilitation process. No one worked harder than Lorenzo at getting his life back.

Initially, most people noticed his physical stature and figured he'd be a jerk-but that couldn't have been farther from the truth. He was not only a gentle giant, but a sweet, sweet soul that would reach out to help anyone in need. People were attracted to his sincere demeanor and his lovely smile and eyes.

Lorenzo taught me to be fearless and persistent with my goals. He taught me this by example. Throughout all stages of his illness and recovery, Lorenzo never, ever held back. Whether at the gym, while hiking or going out into the town: to the mall, to Balboa Park, the Embarcadero, or to the market. Knowing that a seizure could have happened at any moment (because they were so unpredictable), he just said, "let's do it!" He taught me to not fear the seizures, but rather to seize the moments of life we were in. This young man, my child, taught me to keep moving forward with life's goals. He taught me to continually say, "I love you so much-thanks for all you do for me!"

For those who knew Lorenzo intimately, they knew that Saving Private Ryan had been one of his favorite movies since about 6th grade; my son was obsessed with WWII. With this detail in mind, Lorenzo will leave you with this:

At the Normandy Cemetery, where James Ryan as an old man breaks down crying, sets the tone for the entire story of the film, before switching back to him at the end.

At the site, Ryan addresses the grave of Captain Miller with this quote, vowing to remember what he told him on the bridge that fateful day in Ramelle. When his wife approached, he begged her, "Tell me I'm a good man" to which his wife immediately replied, "You are." To see that Ryan truly lived his life according to Miller's last words is both heartbreaking and inspirational. Ryan's last words to Captain Miller were:

"Every Day I Think About What You Said To Me That Day On The Bridge, And I've Tried To Live My Life The Best I Could. I Hope That Was Enough."

Our dear Lorenzo, you have been a good man who has lived his best life and that was enough. Por siempre Lorencito. Nos encontraremos en el otro lado mijo!

Dexter Meyer lit a candle in honor of Lorenzo.

I knew Lorenzo and a couple of his friends from Sterns Gym, He was nothing short of friendly and always made me feel welcome to shoot the breeze with him. I admired his respect he showed for me especially as an older guy. It was always my good fortune to speak with him in the late afternoon even if it was a quick hello. He was a fun guy to know and even after he became ill it was nice to see him every morning with his loving family at Sterns gym. I believe Lorenzo is in heaven being very active and being the same person he was here. When I look at his picture at Sterns gym I say to myself; I am happy I knew that guy. God bless you and keep you. Stay hungry!!As always Dex

Hey my Cutie, wa Ted to wish you & Granpa Guerra & Lunceford & Nana & Uncle Matt a Blessed New Year 20w5! Gosh I miss u all. But, I find strength in knowing you are in God's home Heaven. Till we meet again all of you! Much Love & Adoration Gina. 🥰🥰

Janina Guerra September 6 at 2:39 PM

Oh one more thing about Sterns. You loved it and made it a big part of your life. That was your 2nd home!

Janina Guerra September 6 at 2:37 PM

Hey my cutie, hope u r chilling w/ the family! I don't think I told you Renzo but, Sterns closed in July of 2024! They sold the building and the new developers wanted way to much rent, and we're not going to negotiate w/ Loynie about upgrades!! It was a bitter sweet exit mainly cause your Mom & I were the first Women to break the barriers and make it to where Women could train. Now I know w/ out a doubt that the guys were not keen on that. But progress always wins! We r now at a Gy. Called War House & Renzo you would have loved training there! It's 7/24 we have our key on our phones! (App) & alot of pretty girls training there! Let's just say u could of had your pick. Well cutie continue to watch over us here and I so look forward till the day I see you and Nana, Grandpa & Uncle Matt. I love you & am so proud I have u as my favorite nephew. Sweet dreams. Luv Aunt Gigi

HAPPY BIRTHDAY my Beautiful Nephew! Gosh 27 yrs young! Oh my cutie I wish I could have you back home w/ the family but, we had no control of your Destiny. We will all be together one day, u best believe my cutie!! Mom & I r having a Bday Party for u & Ari Sunday! I know u will be there in Spirit. I love you & am proud to be your Aunt Gigi ❤️💙

Janina Guerra May 9 at 3:09 PM

Hey my cutie, it's Aunt Gigi... Again! Just want to see how your doing & as always I miss the heck out of you. I just wa Ted to ask you Lorenzo if you could really reach out to your Mom & wish her a Happy Mother's Day! It has not been any easier as time has gone by with your passing. I suppose Lorenzo your Dad & Mom will quite never be the same since your passing. But, your Dad will be here next week for a visit. Especially to go visit your Grandparents Lorenzo. They are getting up there and are not quite bouncing back like they use to. Watch over them Lorenzo. I love & thank God for you every day. Love & Peace Aunt Gigi

Hey Renzo, it's me Aunt Gigi! Christmas I gotta say, is not really big on the list for me!! Don't get me wrong I love the baking and our annual Tamalade making with the cousins. We did that yesterday and we could of used your help but, I know you were with us in Spirit. God Lorenzo seems like yesterday that you passed. I can remember that day like no other! My heart still aches for the passing of my beautiful nephew. But, it was your time to leave us. Please know that I always will love you like you were my own son! A big part of me died when you left us. I want you to know Lorenzo I will always cherish our times together. Feliz Navidad & give Grandpa & Nana & Uncle Matt a big kiss from. Love & Peace to a wonderful nephew. Love Aunt Gigi

Good Morning Mr. Papis. Happy Birthday! Your dad isn't fairing so well. I know he'll appreciate an extra hug and a kiss from you right now which I'm sure you are lavishing him with. We're doing the best we can without your physical presence. But " Oh! How we feel your spirit with us every moment of the day and night.!" Give my love to both Mom and Dad. Especially a tremendous hug to Nana from me. Tell her I will forever treasure her energy and love as I feel it every second of my life here in the physical world. Happiest of Birthdays to you my one and only " Mr. Papis.!" All my love and then some. Forever-Your Uncle Tito. Oh how I so loved our ABI classes together. Hey Renzo, was laying my clothes out for the gym for the morning. Of course I thought of you and had a good cry. I miss having you here at home. I cannot lie but, you are where you should be, in Heaven with Nana & Grandpa & Uncle Matt. My beautiful nephew, I always have you in my thoughts. The absence of you never gets easier but, I handle it because I know you are doing so much better in heaven. Promise maybe, to visit me in my dreams. I want you to know Lorenzo, that you were the Bomb.com. Luv u my Pinoy! Till we meet again, on the other side. Luv & fond fond memories, Aunt Gigi

Hey Cutie, it's me Aunt Gigi, wanted to tell u I was thinking about how I use to take you to Game Stop. You were in 7th grade, and you would say " Aunt Gigi " will u drive me to Game Stop. And I would do it in a heart beat, cause I knew it meant we could spend some good times together. And sometimes I we would go to In & Out Burger for something to eat! Renzo, what I would give to do that all over! But, at least I have our memories. I miss you & wish you were here with us. I love & thank you for being the best nephew ever! Love & Peace Gigi! ❤️☐👤

Hey Renzo, Leo & I are on r way to El Paso, TX. Going for his cousins kids 1st Bday! Passed thru Nogales and thought of Nana, and when we all would take road trips there. It's a beautiful cool day. I look at the blue sky with the beautiful clouds and think of Heaven where you & Grandpa & Nana & Uncle Matt are. Absolutely breath taking. Oh I truly miss all you guys. But see u on the other side one day. Save a place for us. As always thanks for being my beautiful nephew. Love Aunt Gigi

Guess Who Lorenzo?? Yep your Aunt Gigi. Have some great news to share with you. Your Dad & Irma called me at wrk today, and your Dad sounded like he is accepting your passing a lil each day. I know you & Grandma & Grandpa have alot to do with that! I thank you for that. We will never really accept your death fully, but if we can understand that you were chosen by our Lord to come home and help pave the way for all of us so when we pass we will all be together again! Hi Mr. Papis. How's everything going? We're getting through. It simply doesn't seem real. A Christmas without you. I'm having a most uncomfortable time of it. Eric and his wife Kate were in town last weekend en route to Portugal. Their relocating. I can't help but think how you would have enjoyed such a prospect. Marriage/family perhaps?, moving to another part of the world. I remember all of our times together. You were always so much fun. No one is setting the world on fire without you that's for certain. Life is just bland. Kinda tasteless if you know what I mean. Your Mom is such a trooper along with your sister. But it's simply tough mejito. Tough on all of us. I'll tell you again. I used to look so forward to Zoom Class with you. I miss your loving energy so much Lorenzo. So very much. I have yet to hear from your Dad. I'm sure he's torn apart especially at this time of year. Do you see Nana often? Everyday? Does Grandpa seem well? This never was his time of year. You'll always be very much alive with me. I'll contact you tomorrow. Good night Lorenzo. Give Nana and Grandpa a big hug and a kiss for me. Especially Nana. Hug her for me till she can't stand it any more. If I can't be with her, I'm glad you are. I love you my precious nephew. My Wonderful Lorenzo. I Love You. Good Night. All my love. Always and Forever - your Uncle Tito-

Lorenzos Uncle Robert November 25 at 6:04 AM

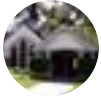

Good Morning Lorenzo/Mom/Dad. It's the day after Thanksgiving. We had a beautiful time at your house last night for dinner. As beautiful as it could be without you Mr. Papis. Jenny and the girls were there which made it extra nice and special. What did all of you do yesterday? Were you together or off on your own? I sure wish I could "take a peek" at where you guys are. But then I suppose that would be cheating. I can't say enough how much I miss all of you. Celebrations are just a "little less than" without you three. Russell was there Lorenzo. What a fine man he is. I've yet to hear from your Dad. I suppose he's in his own place right now. And that's okay. Ari spoke with your Grandpa Lunceford. Appears your grandmother has been in the hospital and awaiting discharge sometime today. Are flowers in bloom all of the time? Mom, your yard is coming along. I'm trying. Let me just say that. Dad. You're still getting compliments on your home. And right you should. I'll say farewell for now. Wishing the three of you a much deserved good day. All my love. Always and Forever your Uncle

Will you three be together today ? Are there any kind of holiday celebrations in heaven ? Or is Heaven the Celebration? I've always wondered that. I love and miss you guys so very much. Lorenzo, today as I do everyday, I'll be so very thankful for being with you at your Zoom classes. The moments when you would fall asleep on my shoulders and I rubbing your head trying to assure you that everything would work out was as comforting to me as I suppose it may have been for you. I'm going to text your father now. I don't really expect much of a response. But let me just check in on him. Your Mom made nine pies yesterday. Aunt Gigi is going to make Turkey and all the sides. Good Morning Lorenzo. How's everything going ? Dennis and I had dinner over at your house last night. Everything is much the same. We're five days away from Thanksgiving. I got a Turkey. Our contribution to the dinner. Aunt Gig I will pick it up today. She bought a roasting pan and baster . So it should be pretty grand. What's it like in Heaven mejito ? What do you do all day ? Is there any measurement of time ?, or does it just go on ? Do you see Nana and Grandpa often ? I sure miss them. Especially my Mom. No one had her enthusiasm for the holidays. She loved every minute of it. Is Grandpa still running ? I took some of Nana's pots with some potting soil to your house a couple of days ago. It seems Aunt Gigi is going to plant the Marigolds your Mom bought for your altar tribute on Dia de los Muertos. I just can't tell you enough Lorenzo how much I miss you. I can't really say in all honesty I'm looking forward to our " first year of first's.!", and dealing without you. But. It's all part of the process. And what a process it is. Your father sent us a videotape set to music of the two of you last week. I can almost " touch" your fathers grief. His pain. Your dad at this point I dare to say is " inconsolable." We don't hear much from him. But I suppose he'll come around in due course. Well mejito. You continue to take care of yourself and Nana and Grandpa. I'll contact you

Good Morning Lorenzo. How's everything going ? Everything is pretty much the same here, minus you. That's the issue. Your not here. I so miss our Zoom classes. Are you/nana/and grandpa catching up on " old times ? ". Do you remember the trellis we got for Nana's Wisteria Climber ? The one you helped me put up in memory of her 100th birthday ? I still have it. The Wisteria didn't make it. But the trellis did. Kind of -anyway. The weather is simply miserable. Hot! And unbelievably humid! We're restricted on outdoor water usage. No more lawns in Southern California. Oh well. There's worse things I suppose. I'm working on the soil underneath the trees in front. Amending the soil a little is a start. It's just so terribly crummy. I'm going to give Lantana a go as ground cover with just a couple of large pots with maybe Hydrangeas ? , along with some Boxwood. How does that sound ? Some days I really get swept up in my memories. My " yesterday's " of my life as I'm doing my projects. If I close my eyes and listen real closely, I can almost., almost, hear you and Ari out front on the swing. Remember when you used to play with your toys in the backyard as Nana would be gardening and Grandpa was in his garage ? I can. Well mejito. I'll shut up for now and let you get back to whatever you've got going on on the other side. Give both Nana and Grandpa a big hug and kiss for me. Especially Nana. I really do feel the presence of the three of you outside. I just can't see you now. I love you Lorenzo. Having both you and your sister grow up here in the old family home I now realize, was one of my " greatest gift's ." A real " down payment " of really comforting and happy thoughts as I get older. And I am ! Hahaha..... All my Love-Uncle Tito-

Lorenzo's Aunt Gigi August 29 at 3:48 PM

Hey Renzo, it's me Aunt Gigi, wanted to tell you what a beautiful service at St. Patrick's you had! The Church had 350 guests that came to bid farewell to a Beautiful Young man who touched so many lives! There was not a dry eye in the house. Your Mom, Luis & Ari & Charles a very nice man that you use to train at Core Fitness. OMG Lorenzo he praised you so much & thanked your Mom & Dad for raising such a compassionate & loving son like you. Ari, with her quick whip sense of comedy managed to say some on the spot sentiments about her baby Brother. Dont get me started on Luis, man he nailed the "Adventures of Luis & Lorenzo.

What a beautiful friend he has been. And Mom Lorenzo, she was so eloquent as always & had the church in tears. Please continue to watch over all your family! We r dealing the loss of our Lorenzo but, we are trying to stay strong. I miss the hell out of you! Thanks for being such a outstanding nephew in my life. Good nite & give Nana, Grandpa & Matt a kiss for me. Save a place for us one day! All my love to you, Aunt Gigi

Good Morning Mr. Papis. I just had to tell you what an outstanding job your parents/Danny/Ari and Aunt Gigi did on your celebration of life day. It was " Five Star " all the way. You absolutely packed the church. I literally just saw a see of heads from one end to the other. I know Nana and Grandpa had a beautiful time with you yesterday as well. What a testament to the commendable job both your parents did in raising you. Especially your mother. Your mom spoke with such pride yesterday. Ari brought the house down a couple of times with her wry wit and loving humor. We have a fabulously loving family mejito. And I for one look so forward to the day we're all together again. Tons of food/music/and memories. All about you and for you. Can't beat that Mr. Papis. I love you. And will always treasure our " Zoom Class " days. Give Nana and Grandpa a big hug and kiss for me. I love you. Always-Your Uncle Tito-

Hi Lorenzo. It's almost midnight and I need to get some sleep but thought I'd tell you about today. Danny and Luis set up tables and chairs outside for the dinner. Dennis and I worked on floral arrangements for the tables. Cousin Krista was helping your mom with various tasks. Your dad wasn't feeling at all well. Anxiety and nervous upsets I suppose. Your mom hasn't stopped a minute in weeks. We'll all be together tomorrow Lorenzo. Just you wait and see. We'll make you proud. Good night mejito. Always and Forever. My Love without end. It's me again Renzo, Aunt Gigi. I just have to say that I miss you so very much. I keep thinking I am going to see your beautiful face and smile when I come home from work. I am so very sorry you had to get this illness. I pray Renzo that one day the world of medicine will find a end to Seizures. I went to the Sterns this morning and felt you there! Please continue to watch over me & give me strength to accept that you are no longer on earth but, in heaven. I love our joking and laughter that we shared. God love you My Pinoy" save a place for me up there. Love & so honored to of being your "Aunt Gigi"

My Beloved Nephew. My Dearest Mr.Papis. What a gift in my life. I followed you from the day you were born. My best memories are our Zoom classes together. We really did laugh and cry together. I'll forever remember the last time we spoke in the family room. You thanked me for always taking care of you and loving you. I thank you Lorenzo. From the bottom of my heart. Thank You. Both you and your sister Ari are simply " the best!" We will all reunite one

Good Morning Mr. Papis. How's everything going in Heaven ? We're having awfully hot weather here for being just a few days before Christmas. I'm thinking of all the many meaningful and beautiful Christmas Holidays we spent through the years. You and your sister and Nana and Grandpa and of course your parents. Your father called us yesterday. Honestly. Your father is just as lost as ever. He said he sent Erma off to be with her family for the holidays as he just wanted to be alone. Understandable I guess. I sure miss how genuinely you used to greet me when I walked into your house. You and Nana always seemed so genuinely happy to see me even if it had been just a few hour since the last visit. I do so miss your pure and innocent love Lorenzo. You are such a real and honest person. Such a rare find. Did Nana make tamales with Aunt Irma? Do you guys have big meals together up there?, or do you just all sit in groups? Aunt Gigi is going great guns with her holiday baking. She's so good at it. Actually Mejito. I don't want the hurt to go away entirely as it is a reminder of just how much I love you. And miss you. And that the most important thing is that I loved. I went to Dixieline Lumber the other day. I was recalling the time you/me/ and your dad went to Ross so he could buy some clothes for both of you. Remember we went to In and Out Burger afterwards? We were calling the street people " goons?" That was a fun day. The holiday season has been about as beautiful as it can be without you Mr. Papis. I remember Nana used to say that a mother's worst nightmare was to lose a child. I sense and feel that with your mom. Just kinduh going through the motions. Did you do any Christmas shopping? Are there any stores where you guys are up in Heaven? Dennis and I are going to Orange County today as he needs to get his hair cut. I'll tell you all about it when we get home. Farewell for now my heavenly nephew. Tell Nana she's still my number one! My " best gal!. " All my love to you guys and then some. Have a blessed day. I'll text later. Merry Christmas-Uncle Tito-
