“ Mo, I've been trying for weeks to figure out just what I wanted to say. The other day I was helping Stephanie print out the cards for your service, and I looked down at the picture of you and it hit me that you are no longer here with us. I realized that I have been trying to be strong for you and John and Michelle and had pushed my own feelings to the side. I miss you Mo. You gave me the best gift anyone could ask for. Your son is the best part of my life so thank you. Thank you for accepting me into your family and loving me as your own. Whenever someone would ask you who I was, without hesitation you would say " she's my daughter". I look back on the last 10 to 15 years or so and remember all the things you and I used to do together. How you'd call me and ask me to go shopping or go to lunch with you. How we would talk and laugh and listen to music. You were someone I could come to when I had a problem. You were always there for me and my kids no matter what you always had my back. Even if we didn't always agree on everything you were still right there. I know that a lot of things changed for you when Greg died. We spent alot of time together. I know how much of a toll that took on you. I know when you got sick this time that you just wanted to crawl under the covers but you didn't, you fought hard from the day you found out to stay here with us as long as you possibly could. I stood by you at every treatment watching chemo take its toll and you did it all for us. You are such a brave and selfless person. I promise you won't be forgotten and I promise we will take care of Michelle. I know your looking down and smiling seeing us together having dinners and spending time together. You were always a 2nd mom to me and I love you with all my heart Mo. I will hold you in my heart forever.

“ To my second mom - thank you for loving me, joking around, playing games (I'll miss my only monopoly partner), and especially for entrusting me to care for Michelle - your presence is missed greatly around our home, but I know that watching you suffer was so hard on all of us. I'm glad you're back with Greg (who warned me that Michelle was "a handful") and with the one that makes all things new. I'll miss my Lego helper (don't worry, sending a few "toilet roll holders" with ya!) and my sounding board for all things in life.

Love you

“ Hello Green Family.
I grew up with Michelle and that meant I grew up with her family, as well. Mrs. Judy loved her children ferociously, she definitely embodied the term mama bear before it was popular, especially with Michelle. Big smile. I'm sure you will all miss your matriarch. May the Lord comfort you all in your moments of sadness and May you smile with memories of joy at her shenanigans.

“ I am sad for the Green's and all of those who were close to Judy's heart. I am also relieved that there is no more pain or suffering.
To Judy: I'm sure you left behind tons of great memories with friends and family, I'll add one more that you'll say "oh yeah..." to.
It was my first time spending the night at your place, and well, being the teenagers we were at the time, we did something we weren't supposed to and you got pretty mad, and I believe I recall a can of soup being thrown at Johns head.... Thanks for not throwing anything at mine.
Other memories include seeing you with Bootsie, and at all the family bbq's, Thanksgiving dinners, and Xmas dinners. I always loved your potato salad! They won't be the same without you there. Once we make it to where you are, we will have to tear up some food together again!
You can now spend all of eternity with Greg and all of your other loved ones up there, and please tell my Dad hello for all of us!

“ To the grandma that was loved by so many.. I'm going to miss you everyday grandma you are such a kind soul that touched the hearts of so many lives. You were the best grandmother anyone could ever ask for and I'm truly blessed to have had you in my life. You deserve nothing but the utmost respect and love from everyone around you because that's what you always gave to others. You raised two amazing children who have gone on and started families of their own if anyone deserves the title of best mother or grandmother it would be you.. I love you with every inch of my being and I know you are resting in paradise with grandpa looking down on all of us and watching us become the people you hoped we would be. I hope that I make you proud and hope to be to my children and grand children what you were to me.. I Love you grandma you will be missed heaven just got a beautiful soul and I know everyone here will miss hearing your voice and being able to hug you. You will always be in our hearts so I know you will stay forever... Rest In Paradise Grandma
